A few years ago (says the "Great Western Railway Magazine") it would have been a joke upon the railway service to mention the dishonesty of employees, but it is not, to blank faces, and we are bound to say that at the present time it has to be acknowledged that property sent by rail is far less secure than formerly.

His colleagues esteemed him highly, and his many friends will be glad to hear that he is now residing at Paddington. The "Great Western Railway Magazine" concludes an obituary notice of the late Mr. George Shaw, for many years a boisterous crack at the club and afterwards at Giesbeek, Twickenham.
